Red Cross blood plasma program was given a big boost Monday and an even bigger one was being provided Tuesday when Circleville and Pickaway county residents donated nearly 300 pints of blood at the Methodist church where the Columbus blood donor center headquarters was established.

Hal Dean, who directed local organization for the visit of the mobile unit, was jubilant over the success of the first day. One hundred and thirty-four persons appeared at the church and 134 pints of blood were taken, only four persons being rejected.

"The day was the biggest the mobile unit has ever had in its series of tours throughout central Ohio," Dean said, "and we intend to make Tuesday even a bigger day."

Tuesday Goal Set

The goal set for Tuesday was 140 pints of blood, and from all indications that mark would be reached.

Blood is sent from Circleville to Columbus and thence to a processing center, probably Indianapolis, where it is made into plasma. Immediately after being processed the blood is sent to war theaters scattered in all corners of the world to help save lives of American boys who are giving their all to defend their flag.

Results of the blood plasma work have been remarkable, army and navy men declare, urging that every person who is physically able give a pint of his blood to the Red Cross.

ARMED SERVICE REJECTS ROONEY FOR WAR DUTY

HOLLYWOOD, March 16—Mickey Rooney, faced in recent months with the prospect of being drafted, was free today to pursue the even tenor of his movie career.

The armed services, it was learned, turned him down as physically unfit for induction.

The decision was made at the conclusion of a physical examination. The young star's case has gone back to his Westwood draft board for reclassification.

Rooney's deferment as an essential worker had been requested by his studio, M-G-M. The results of the physical examination disposed of the matter.

WASHINGTON, March 16—Reconnaissance photographs taken over Nuremberg following the March 8 RAF raid on the Bavarian industrial center today disproved the patent Nazi claim that "only historic monuments" had been damaged.

Seven other war production plants were heavily damaged, and railroad yards, repair shops and administrative buildings suffered considerable damage.

The photographic planes were over the city two days after the raid. At that time fires still raged in the Diesel works and the Siemens plant.

WASHINGTON, March 16—Alfred military plans and operations for defeating the axis today are understood to be figuring in the conversations which British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden is holding with the American government.

Contrary to the general belief, Eden's talks are not confined merely to postwar problems. An authoritative source said Eden has been discussing military strategy, especially in his conferences with Secretary of War Stimson and Secretary of Navy Knox.

Eden has been discussing military strategy, especially in his conferences with Secretary of War Stimson and Secretary of Navy Knox.

Furthermore, the youthful British foreign secretary is showing evidence in his talks of being strongly in favor of the strategy or continued offensive operations against the enemy.

He is showing an active interest in the problems of winning the war as well as the peace that follows. In this connection, informed sources pointed out that Eden is a member of the British war cabinet and therefore keenly interested in the day-to-day development of military operations and plans.

AAA WARS ON FARM BUREAU, O'NEAL CLAIMS

National Leader Says Tax Money Used In Attack On Federation

SCHOOLER STARTS FIGHT

Opposition To Incentive Payments Stir Ire Of New Deal Bureau

WASHINGTON, March 16—Edward A. O'Neal charged today that taxpayers' money was being used by agents of the new deal's agricultural adjustment administration to crush the American farm bureau federation of which he is president.

"The AAA is carrying on a campaign against the American farm bureau federation," O'Neal asserted.

He alleged that the campaign against the farm organization was started by Harry Schooler, AAA western regional director.

O'Neal's charge came in the wake of letters sent to members of the Indian farm bureau by Hassel E. Schenck, its president. In the letters, Schenck quoted a Schooler address before county triple A women in Indianapolis on February 26. Schooler was alleged to have said:

"Fight Is On"

"The fight is on between the farm bureau and the triple A. Strike below the belt, above the belt or anywhere you can. Tell the farmers to join the Farmers' Union, read the 'Spade' and write their congressmen."

"This was an alarming statement to me," Schenck wrote, "as I had just returned from four county-wide meetings in which I had spoken strongly in favor of a continuation of the agricultural adjustment act."

"All over the midwest," O'Neal added today, "AAA committeemen are being told falsely that we are trying to destroy the AAA because we oppose incentive payments. My answer to that is that all we ask is a fair price and if we have that at this time we do not need incentive payments in order to get the necessary production."

6. Army officials should consider deferring the draft of farm youths during 1943.

7. Farm boys now in the armed services who are not overseas should be furloughed during planting and harvesting seasons.

8. The government should give assurance to farmers that help for harvesting will be available if they plant maximum acreage in answer to Washington's appeal for increased food production.

Hoover Presents Plan To Forestall Critical Food Shortage In U. S.

DES MOINES, Ia., March 16—Agricultural America had under consideration today eight recommendations by former President Herbert Hoover which, he said, would forestall an impending critical food shortage.

Hoover, who was food administrator during the World War I, submitted his proposals last night at the final session of the Midwest Governors' Manpower and Farm Planning conference in Des Moines which was attended by 77 farm experts, including eight governors, from the nation's "bread basket" states.

States represented at the conference either by governors or by delegates were Iowa, Kansas, Michigan, Minnesota, Nebraska, Illinois, Indiana, North Dakota, South Dakota, Ohio and Wisconsin.

NAZI JITTERS INCREASE

Martial Law Declared In Haute Savoie Region Near Swiss Border

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON, March 16—Paving the way for the coming invasion of Europe, the Navy disclosed today that American, British and Canadian officials have "reached complete agreement" on the policy to smash the Nazi u-boat menace in the Atlantic.

The Navy announcement said that a series of meetings has been held in Washington "under chairmanship" of Admiral Ernest J. King, commander-in-chief of the United States fleet, indicating he is playing the leading role in the intensive anti-sub campaign.

Issued simultaneously in London, Ottawa and Washington the announcement came on the heels of axis claims of U-boat successes that indicate Hitler has begun his Spring offensive to cut United Nations' supply lines to Europe and African war zones.

By International News Service

Martial law was proclaimed in the Haute Savoie region of the French Alps near the Swiss border today following refusal of a huge French patriot guerrilla army to surrender despite an attack by 6,000 Italian regular troops.

The Algiers radio reported declaration of martial law and said that Frenchmen from all parts of the country are rushing to join the guerrilla army.

Allied planes, reports declared, have dropped arms and ammunition and other supplies to the loyal Frenchmen who have defied the axis conquerors.

Vichy French mobile guards refused to join in the attack on their countrymen, the dispatch declared. Vichy troops poured into the district, according to advices from Berne, outnumbering the rebels in the Haute Savoie region.

Besiegers Reinforced

The London Daily Express, in a dispatch from the French frontier, reported that 700 police guards had arrived to reinforce the besieging military forces in an attempt to starve out the mountain army.

(The Dakar radio, in a broadcast recorded by CBS in New York, said that new demonstrations have taken place in the south of France as French workers struck against the forcible deportation of their comrades to labor camps and war factories.)

The Nazis, goaded to action by their need for manpower in their hard-hit war factories, have been seizing young Frenchmen and impressing them in the dreaded Todt labor organization, which is working on coastal fortifications.

Sixty

(Continued from Page One) reported on the increase. Nazi military authorities were reported to have begun evacuating civilians from the coastal areas of France and Belgium and ordered their shore patrols on the alert against possible invasion attempts.

Further Nazi nervousness was betrayed in the blaring threat broadcast by the Paris radio that American and British prisoners would be executed unless allied air forces ceased their devastating raids on industrial targets in the Reich and occupied Europe.

An open revolt grew on the western front. Soviet armies smashed ahead and were believed closing in on Smolensk, the Nazi Winter base 230 miles west of Moscow. Frontline dispatches said the Germans were falling back on Smolensk, setting fire to Russian villages in their wake in an effort to check the Red army's advance.

Russians Hard Hit

Soviet forces driven from Kharkov fought desperately east and south of the city, and along the upper Donets front to halt the enemy offensive. An official communiqué announced that Russian forces had evacuated Kharkov after a "tense, fierce battle."

But the German victory at Kharkov may still end in disaster, military observers pointed out. If the Germans are unable to hold Smolensk, Orel and Bryansk, their armies in Kharkov and the Donets basin may be enveloped and pinched off in a campaign similar to the costly battle of Stalingrad.

The Soviet noon communiqué said the German drive in the upper Donets basin had been checked, and reported Russian columns surging ahead in the Lake Ilmen area, southwest of Vyazma on the rail line to Smolensk, and along the sea of Azov towards Rostov.

There was lull in the air warfare over western Europe. Berlin said a formation of German bombers struck at England in a night raid and admitted loss of two planes.

Hun Field Raided

American-made Ventura bombers, escorted by RAF Spitfires, raided the German airfield at St. Brienne in Brittany, and followed up with a night attack and British typhoon fighters strafed enemy shipping off the Dutch coast.

Other axis raiders bombed two towns on the northeast coast. The attacks caused no damage and cost the enemy four planes. Allied planes were active in attacks on enemy troop positions and assaults on shipping off the African coast.

Units of the British first army today scored a slight advance in the Sejdene area of northern Tunisia, allied headquarters announced. Ground activity generally continued on a small scale due to bad weather and allied planes attacked the Mezzouina airfield in the central battle area and an enemy convoy between Sicily and Tunisia. One German ship was sunk and Flying Fortresses were continuing the attack.

Medium bombers tackled the Mezzouina airfield while a squadron of heavy bombers lashed at the convoy.

Axis Patrols Dispersed

Axis patrols operating in the Gafsa area were successfully dispersed by concerted artillery fire from allied positions.

The communiqué from headquarters of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower reported quiet on the southern front along the Mareth defense line. The British eighth army under command of Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery carried out "normal patrols," the communiqué said.

Earlier it had been announced that American bombers were hammering axis positions in the Mareth line. British Spitfires smashed a German attack at the allied shipping off the Algerian coast.

In the southwest Pacific Gen. MacArthur's bombers swept east and west of New Guinea in continued assaults on Japanese bases and enemy shipping. Another Japanese convoy was attacked approaching the Aru Islands, between New Guinea and the Australian mainland. Direct hits were scored on two trooperships.

A resurgence of Japanese air-power was reported. Forty-nine enemy planes attacked Darwin, Australia, and fifteen enemy bombers struck at the allied base in Oro Bay, New Guinea.

Allied fighters and ground defenses shot down two enemy bombers and 12 fighters at Darwin. Four allied planes were shot down but two pilots were saved. One allied bomber was lost in the Ara attack.

JAILED FOR DRINKING

Two men arrested during the week end for intoxication and disorderly conduct were sent to county jail Tuesday in default of payment of fines of $10 and costs each. They were G. W. Potts and Frederick McColister, both of the Williamsport district. Hearings were conducted before Mayor Ben H. Gordon.

Weak At Home

"Our country is going strong on the military front. The magnificent ability, courage and devotion of our army and navy lift the spirit of every American. We have weaknesses on the home front... one of these weaknesses is in the food sector."

Hoover then drew a parallel between the collapse of starving countries in Europe during World War I and the "current degeneration of American agriculture." he said:

"Prior to the last war Russia was a surplus food country. She exported large quantities of food. They neglected the food production front. Two years later the Russian cities were pinched for food. Mobs roamed the streets howling 'give us bread,' and 'down with the czar.' the czar went down."

"Unlike our case in the war 25 years ago, we have today at work in America uncanny parallels with the same degenerative forces that have been so disastrous in Europe," Hoover said. "Like them, we have drawn undue manpower from the farms."

Dangers Cited

"We can easily explore the causes of food degeneration in those countries during the last total war. Too much manpower was drained from the farms in all those nations. Their leaders said women, children and inexperienced city people could serve on the farms. But that plan proved impractical."

"Agricultural machinery plants were turned to munitions. Inadequate replacements were available. Fisheries were restricted because of the draft of fishermen. Planting was less effective and harvesting less complete. More fields had to be turned to human food. Feed supplies for animals decreased."

"Imports of foodstuffs from overseas were reduced or cut off."

"Loss of skilled manpower affected the care of meat and dairy products."

Young Betts knows first hand because he saw buddies mutilated and killed by Japanese shells and bombs in seven major sea fights in which he engaged when serving on the U. S. aircraft carrier, the Hornet, before it was sunk under him.

"I know how important plasma can be," young Betts said. "I have seen it save the lives of terribly wounded men. I have heard of sailors and marines being pulled back from the very doors of death by blood donated by some patriotic person back in the State. So, while I am doing nothing right now I thought it only right that I also give some of my blood. I know I'll feel a lot better about doing it." His father, William Betts, a rural mail carrier, donated a pint of his blood Tuesday.

Sign To Return

Nearly every person who gave blood Monday and Tuesday volunteered before leaving the church to make another donation the next time the Red Cross unit comes to Circleville.

The entire operation was perfectly organized. Well trained Red Cross nurses, five of them, came to Circleville with Dr. Joseph Maxwell of Columbus, assigned to this city. Also accompanying the Columbus group was a secretary and a motor car driver.

Volunteer Circleville nurses, Red Cross workers, women of the church and scores of other women were at the church all during the two days to serve in various roles. Each person giving blood received a large glass of orange juice before making his donation, and after the blood had been taken was given a lunch by women of the church.

Old Woman Volunteers

One Circleville woman telephoned the church Monday to ask if there might be any need for her blood. Admitting her age was 70, Red Cross was forced to turn down her offer. "If you think this blood or mine will help save the life of a boy in the service, you just take all you want," the woman said. She was irked, registrars at the church said, when informed she could not give blood. She lost a son in the last world war.

Twenty-three boys are enrolled in the vocational agriculture program of the Atlanta school under direction of J. O. James.

Last November the boys bought seven beef cattle for feeding purposes for $600 and in a recent sale received $1,071 for the seven.

Counting feed costs, labor and other expenses the boys made a profit of $202.30 on their project.

On the same date they bought six hogs to feed, paying $142 for the animals, and clearing $34.02, after all expenses were paid.

Another woman who has two brothers in the marine corps in this war and had two brothers in the first World War appeared to donate blood. Another woman, who was not registered for a donation, appeared and insisted she be permitted to give a pint of her blood. "This is my son's birthday and he's fighting in Africa," mother said.

Many government leaders admitted, however, that they were "very afraid" that a "strike" would actually develop. On February 1, there were 79,369,000 tons of coal, or a 46-day supply above ground at the present time.

Government officials were reticent in discussing the possibility of a coal strike in April. They pointed out that Lewis now was in the midst of negotiations with coal operators in New York. The miners' present contract expires March 31, and normally, unless a new contract is signed by that date, the miners refuse to report to the pits on the next working day.

Many government leaders admitted, however, that they were "very afraid" that a "strike" would actually develop. On February 1, there were 79,369,000 tons of coal, or a 46-day supply above ground at the present time.

Some war plants would close within five days, many others within 10 days or two weeks; small railroads in the east and south could operate only about 15 days; railroads in the southwest could operate only 23 days; no railroad has more than a 39-day supply.

Coal used for steam and power in steel and rolling mills would be exhausted in 32 days; Ohio mills would be forced to shut down in 24 days.

By-product coke ovens fed by coal and necessary for operation of steel mills could remain in production an average of 40 days throughout the country but only 32 days in the important middle Atlantic area and 11 days in the southwest, mountain and Pacific region.

JAPS FAIL TO DOWN BARNEY; PLAUDITS DO IT

NEW YORK, March 16—The sturdy constitution that sustained Corporal Barney Ross for several years as a boxing champion and in the Jap-infested jungle of Guadalcanal today was called on for another demonstration of its durability.

The "fighting marine" whose heroism in the Solomons earned him national acclaim was recuperating in the navy hospital in St. Albans, from a recurrence of the malaria he contracted on Guadalcanal.

His private physician describes his condition as "fair" and attributed Corporal Ross' relapse to the arduous schedule of engagements he has fulfilled since returning to New York last Friday.

He was scheduled to appear at the Red Cross rally in Madison Square Garden last night but became ill with fever in his hotel suite and was rushed to the hospital.

In his stead his pretty wife Catherine appeared at the rally to deliver the address that her husband had prepared.

Corporal Ross has received a welcome such as is accorded only to heroes since his arrival. His desire to appear wherever possible to plead for an all-out war effort undoubtedly brought on the weakness that led to his relapse.

Before he became ill yesterday Ross had spoken to 4,000 employees of the New York Life Insurance Company at a Red Cross rally in the lobby of the company's building.

The entire operation was perfectly organized. Well trained Red Cross nurses, five of them, came to Circleville with Dr. Joseph Maxwell of Columbus, assigned to this city. Also accompanying the Columbus group was a secretary and a motor car driver.

Volunteer Circleville nurses, Red Cross workers, women of the church and scores of other women were at the church all during the two days to serve in various roles.

FIGHTING BAND HURLS DEFI AT ITALIAN TROOPS

Vichy Mobile Guards Refuse To Join In Attack On Countrymen

(Continued from Page One) reported on the increase. Nazi military authorities were reported to have begun evacuating civilians from the coastal areas of France and Belgium and ordered their shore patrols on the alert against possible invasion attempts.

Further Nazi nervousness was betrayed in the blaring threat broadcast by the Paris radio that American and British prisoners would be executed unless allied air forces ceased their devastating raids on industrial targets in the Reich and occupied Europe.

As open revolt grew on the western front Soviet armies smashed ahead and were believed closing in on Smolensk, the Nazi Winter base 230 miles west of Moscow. Frontline dispatches said the Germans were falling back on Smolensk, setting fire to Russian villages in their wake in an effort to check the Red army's advance.

Russians Hard Hit

Soviet forces driven from Khar-kov fought desperately east and south of the city, and along the upper Donets front to halt the enemy offensive. An official communiqué announced that Russian forces had evacuated Khar-kov after a "tense, fierce battle."

But the German victory at Khar-kov may still end in disaster, military observers pointed out. If the Germans are unable to hold Smolensk, Orel and Briansk, their armies in Khar-kov and the Donets basin may be enveloped and pinched off in a campaign similar to the costly battle of Stalingrad.

The Soviet noon communiqué said the German drive in the upper Donets basin had been checked, and reported Russian columns surging ahead in the Lake Ilmen area, southwest of Vyazma on the rail line to Smolensk, and along the sea of Azov towards Rostov.

There was a lull in the air warfare over western Europe. Berlin said a formation of German bombers struck at England in a night raid and admitted loss of two planes.

Hun Field Raided

American-made Ventura bombers, escorted by RAF Spitfires, raided the German airfield at St. Brienne in Brittany, and followed up with a night attack and British typhoon fighters strafed enemy shipping off the Dutch coast.

Other axis raiders bombed two towns on the northeast coast. The attacks caused no damage and cost the enemy four planes. Allied planes were active in attacks on enemy troop positions and assaults on shipping off the African coast.

Units of the British first army today scored a slight advance in the Sejanane area of northern Tunisia, allied headquarters announced. Ground activity generally continued on a small scale due to bad weather and allied planes attacked the Mezzouna airfield in the central battle area and an enemy convoy between Sicily and Tunisia. One German ship was sunk and Flying Fortresses are continuing the attack.

Medium bombers tackled the Mezzouna airfield while a squadron of heavy bombers lashed at the convoy.

Axle Patrols Dispersed

Axle patrols operating in the Gaisa area were successfully dispersed by concerted artillery fire from allied positions.

The communiqué from headquarters of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower reported quiet on the southern front along the Mareth defense line. The British eighth army under command of Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery carried out "normal patrols," the communiqué said.

Earlier it had been announced that American bombers were hammering axis positions in the Mareth line. British Spitfires smashed a German attack on allied shipping off the Algerian coast.

In the southwest Pacific Gen. MacArthur's bombers swept east and west of New Guinea in continued assaults on Japanese bases and enemy shipping. Another Japanese convoy was attacked approaching the Aru islands, between New Guinea and the Australian mainland. Direct hits were scored on two trooperships.

A resurgence of Japanese air power was reported. Forty-nine enemy planes attacked Darwin, Australia, and fifteen enemy bombers struck at the allied base in Oro Bay, New Guinea.

Allied fighters and ground defenses shot down two enemy bombers and 12 fighters at Darwin. Four allied planes were shot down but two pilots were saved. One allied bomber was lost in the Aru attack.

JAILED FOR DRINKING

Two men arrested during the week end for intoxication and disorderly conduct were sent to county jail Tuesday in default of payment of fines of $10 and costs each. They were G. W. Potts and Frederick McColister, both of the Williamsport district. Hearings were conducted before Mayor Ben H. Gordon.

Hoover Presents Plan To Forestall Critical Food Shortage In U. S.

Weak At Home

"Our country is going strong on the military front. The magnificent ability, courage and devotion of our army and navy lift the spirit of every American. We have weaknesses on the home front. . . . one of these weaknesses is in the food sector."

Hoover then drew a parallel between the collapse of starving countries in Europe during World War I and the "current degeneration of American agriculture," he said:

"Prior to the last war Russia was a surplus food country. She exported large quantities of food.

They neglected the food production front. Two years later the Russian cities were pinched for food. Mobs roamed the streets howling 'give us bread,' and 'down with the czar.' the czar went down."

"Germany in 1914 produced about 85 percent of her own food requirements, despite the blockade. Her war leaders were sure they could ration the population 15 percent. They neglected the food front. In three years Germany was dangerously short of food. In four years mobs were demanding bread and the emperor's head."

Dangers Cited

"We can easily explore the causes of food degeneration in those countries during the last war. Too much manpower was drained from the farms in all those nations. Their leaders said women, children and inexperienced city people could serve on the farms. But that plan proved impractical.

"Agricultural machinery plants were turned to munitions. Inadequate replacements were available. Fisheries were restricted because of the draft of fishermen. Planting was less effective and harvesting less complete. More fields had to be turned to human food. Feed supplies for animals decreased.

"Imports of foodstuffs from overseas were reduced or cut off.

"Loss of skilled manpower affected the care of meat and dairy

SIMPLICITY IS KEYNOTE OF NEW RATION PROGRAM

Housewives Should Have No Difficulty With Red Allotment Stamps

ONE TABLE OF POINTS

Further Registration Not Required To Obtain Meats And Fats

"Simplicity is the keynote of the new meats and fats rationing program which becomes operative March 29," George D. McDowell, chairman of the Pickaway county War Price and Rationing office, declared Tuesday.

"Housewives will have no difficulty at all in shopping with their red ration stamps in War Ration Book No. 2 when the new program goes into operation," he declared.

Although the ration list includes a wide variety of foods including all meats and many cheeses, as well as shortenings and salad oil, butter and margarine, canned fish and many other items, from the point of view of the housewife who does the shopping it will be a simple matter.

Single Stamp Set

"All these foods will be rationed with a single set of stamps," Mr. McDowell said, "and the busy housewife will have to consult only one table of point values to find out how many ration points any of these foods will cost."

This latest program requires no registration of any kind. War Ration Book 2 has already been distributed, and when the program goes into effect, housewives will already have a full month's experience in the use of their point-rationed books in buying processed foods. Neither will consumers be asked to report any stocks of any foods they may have on hand.

One of the differences between the use of the blue and red stamps in War Ration Book 2 is the order in which stamps will be declared valid.

When rationing begins March 29 the first set of stamps, marked "A," worth 16 points will be valid. Beginning on April 4, and then on each succeeding Sunday throughout April, an additional set of stamps will be validated. All these stamps, from "A" through "E" inclusive, will remain in use all months, making a total of 80 points a person in April.

Another difference in the use of the red stamps is that it permits retailers to make "change" in ration stamps when a customer finds it impossible to give the exact amount of valid red stamps when making a purchase. Only one-point red stamps of any series currently valid may be used for this purpose.

Change In Stamps

During the week of April 4 to 10, for example, storekeepers may give their customers red one-point stamps marked "A" or "B" in change. Customers are reminded in this connection that they must use stamps they receive in change by the end of the month in which they are issued and before they expire—just as they must use these stamps in their own books.

As red stamps are declared valid, they may be used with complete freedom of choice by the housewife to buy any one or any combination of the foods for which they must be surrendered. There is no distinction made at all in the use of the red stamps as between meat and cheese or any of the other foods for which these stamps will be spent.

"For example," explained Mr. McDowell, "a housewife who comes into the store with 40 points to spend from ration books of her family may spend all of them for meat or all of them for butter or cheese, or she may, if she wishes, divide up her points and buy butter or cheese, or margarine and meat, or any other combination of food she chooses."

Point values for the entire list of foods rationed in Circleville will be the same as in every retail store in the country, just as they are for canned goods. Point prices of different cuts of meat will be different, just as the point prices of apricots and peas, for example, are different. However, there will be no difference in point price between different grades of the same cut of meat—not between different grades of hard cheese, nor the same quantity of any kind of butter.

Many farmers—even those who operate on a very small scale—produce some of the foods included in the new ration program for the use of their families, Mr. McDowell pointed out. Although the new plan places no official restrictions on the use of any of these foods at the farmer's own table, the Government is requesting that farm families retain red stamps in their family ration books in an amount equal in point value to the foods produced and eaten at home.

Nazi party won control of the Reichstag.

Totally Unalike

The past 10 years of the careers of these men run parallel in point of time only; beyond that, similarity practically ceases to exist.

While President Roosevelt consistently tried to keep the United States on an even keel in a world that threatened from the beginning of his administration to blow up into the smoke and flame of war, and finally did, Adolf Hitler directed all his efforts and those of the German nation, first, to building up a tremendous military machine and, then, to using it for the invasion and conquest of its neighbors.

From the start, the two leaders crossed swords. On May 16, 1933, two months after his inauguration, Roosevelt sent to the disarmament conference, then meeting in Geneva, Switzerland, a message stating that the objective of the conference must be "complete elimination of all offensive weapons."

Almost simultaneously, he told the German government that the United States wished it to retain the status quo of armament while other nations were brought down to its level.

Hitler Busy

Meanwhile, Hitler and his Nazi lieutenants were well on their way to installing the machinery that eventually led to war, although the day after the American president's message was dispatched to the disarmament conference, he proclaimed to the Reichstag that "the German people have no thought of invading any country."

How truthfully the Nazi Fuehrer meant that statement was indicated in October of that year when Germany withdrew from both the League of Nations and the disarmament conference.

After Germany had announced to the world in 1933 that she was rearming in defiance of the Versailles treaty, Hitler explaining that "the German government . . . wishes . . . to create no instrument of military aggression," President Roosevelt again emphasized the American willingness to disarm, instead of rearming, if other nations would agree, but, in January, 1936, he also warned that the international situation was such that the "tragedy of general war" might result.

Even on the eve of war, the United States chief executive made a last-minute effort to avert the outbreak by dispatching messages to Germany and Poland, in a message to Hitler declaring that "countless human lives can yet be saved, and hope may even now construct a foundation for a peaceful and happier relationship . . ."

Hitler's first reply was the invasion of Poland; the diplomatic note sent a few hours later asserted that Germany had tried every means to find a peaceful settlement.

Climax Approaches

Such were the works of these two men, each with a decade of leadership now behind him. Now they have reached the climax of their battle of ideals, which only one can win, and it is certain that long before another decade passes one will have passed from the scene.

Citizens of the United States and of the United Nations are betting on the American president to lead them to victory.

Active War Roles Of Kiwanians and Plans For Future Praised

Circleville Kiwanians heard themselves eulogized Monday evening for the role they are playing in the war effort, and at the same time announced plans for participation in several more war-inspired projects.

The club pledged itself almost 100 percent to work with the Pickaway county Victory Loan campaign committee headed by Clark Will to try to put the district over the top in the program scheduled to open in April. The role the club members will play will be outlined later, but it is understood that all members will be called on for service.

The club, which lists a Civilian Defense Council advisory board member, chief air raid warden, warden, fire watchers, auxiliary police and other members of the Civilian Defense personnel, was lauded by Tom E. Wilson, director of the Circleville and Pickaway county Civilian Defense Councils, for its part in the war effort.

As red stamps are declared valid, they may be used with complete freedom of choice by the housewife to buy any one or any combination of the foods for which they must be surrendered. WASHINGTON, D.C.—Two men who have led their respective nations for a decade—

Two men who probably have held more power in their governments than any of their predecessors—

BUT two men with diametrically opposed ideals—ideals that now are being fought out on scores of battlefields.

The two men, of course, are President Franklin D. Roosevelt of the United States, who this week marks the tenth anniversary of his first inauguration as chief executive, and Adolf Hitler, who likewise is marking the tenth anniversary of his rise to power in Germany.

Decade for Each

It was just 10 years ago today that President Roosevelt took over the reigns of government from retiring President Herbert Hoover at the peak of the nation's worst economic crisis. Five weeks earlier, Hitler had become chancellor of Germany, and, the day after Roosevelt's inauguration, Hitler's

Nazi party won control of the Reichstag.

ACTIVE WAR ROLES OF KIWANIANS AND PLANS FOR FUTURE PRAISED

Circleville Kiwanians heard themselves eulogized Monday evening for the role they are playing in the war effort, and at the same time announced plans for participation in several more war-inspired projects.

Grand theatre is cooperating with the club in planning the picture show which is scheduled at 4 p.m.

School children are being urged to attend the show, taking old hosiery, in addition to the book, with them.

Hal Dean, member of the club and chairman of the Red Cross blood bank project locally, told the club that the first day of blood donations was completed with 134 pints of blood taken. Mobile unit operators told him the day was the biggest the unit has had in its tours. Many Kiwanians gave blood Monday and others were to appear Tuesday.

Plans are being made for a Kiwanis-Farmer meeting next Monday evening when Mack Sauer, Greenfield, O., newspaperman and humorist appears at the Hanley tearoom as the speaker. Renich Dunlap, chairman of the club's program committee, announced that every Kiwanian was expected to take a farmer friend. Special music will be planned during the evening.

Similar meetings are being held throughout the state with consideration being given to changes, if any, in the 1943 hunting regulations.

At present the county committee is comprised of Ralph Leach, chairman; L. H. Mebs, sportsman member, and Lawrence Liston, farmer member.

This advisory committee meets with the Ohio Conservation Commission at a later date to transmit sentiment of the community as a guide to establishing regulations for fishing and hunting.

The meeting is scheduled for 8 p.m.

CONSERVATION BOARD TO BE NAMED THURSDAY

Pickaway county Conservation committee for 1943 will be elected Thursday evening when Pickaway county Farmer's and Sportsmen's association meets in the Elks lodge home. The committee will be comprised of three men, a chairman, a farmer member and a sportsman member.

Similar meetings are being held throughout the state with consideration being given to changes, if any, in the 1943 hunting regulations.

Irvin R. Thomas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vere Thomas, 406 East Franklin street, recently was graduated from the aviation ordnance school and was promoted to Corporal at U. S. naval air station, Jacksonville, Fla. He enlisted in the marines, September 15, 1942, and was sent to Parris Island, S. C., for indoctrinal training before being transferred to the naval air technical training center at Jacksonville. Thomas is now qualified to operate all guns and bombs used in airplanes and will probably see service with a Marine Aviation Detachment.

NO NEGOTIATED PEACE

TALK OF A negotiated peace is on the horizon. The longer the war continues, the worse for the axis. Sooner or later they will want to see if, by making peace, they may be allowed to keep their loot. In every country there will be some who would escape from our present hardships by agreeing to a plausible settlement.

Of course this would be utterly foolish. Douglas Miller, who for 15 years was United States Commercial Attaché in Berlin, knows the Nazis as few Americans do. His knowledge has been the basis of much that is published about them under other names. He points out that no conqueror ever stops conquering until he is stopped by some outside force, and says:

"The totalitarians are a group of bandits who have learned no useful trade or occupation, but are well armed and have no scruples about attacking their neighbors. Germany has, under Hitler, thrown away her possibilities of peaceful trade and understanding with all the world, and has no option but to go forward in the campaign of aggression. Under these circumstances it is completely useless to await any peaceful resettlement of Europe's troubles. The Nazis would not know what to do with peace."

The wise man does not negotiate with smallpox, he exterminates it. Nazism is such a disease.

EYES ON THE BALL

THE NATION all at once seems to be breaking out with a rash of postbellum planning. All kinds of peace programs are beginning to appear and attract discussion.

This is fine, provided people are able to keep their attention focussed on two or three vital programs at the same time.

A wise old recipe for cooking a rabbit starts with the words—"first catch your rabbit." Right now war victory, or at least full assurance of victory, is the national rabbit.

It is right, of course, to have experts working quietly and diligently on all the problems we shall have to face at the war's end. But meanwhile the job that must be done in the open is the immense task of winning the war on all fronts as promptly and completely as possible. And for most people, that job must have first claim on attention. Concentration, single-mindedness, is needed. It takes a superman to keep his eye on everything. Even Hitler couldn't manage it.

Snakes are supposed to wiggle and show signs of life even after their heads are cut off. This may explain the revival of the Nazis in Russia.

It's too bad that John L. Sullivan and John L. Lewis never tackled each other.

Ax Knows More About Us Than We About Them

U. S. Internal Squabbings Must Interest Our Enemies

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

• AXIS GOVERNMENTS undoubtedly are entitled to a certain sort of recognition for keeping their news more tightly bottled up than the democracies.

It isn't creditable to the former, of course. They couldn't do it if they weren't despots. Nevertheless, there manifestly are going on in their various midsts that it would be to our advantage to get the low-down on, instead of having to guess at them, as we are compelled to do.

Illustratively, it must be very stimulating to the Axis tyrants to peruse well-authenticated accounts of back-and-forth cussings between our multiplicity of bureaucracies. Manifestly reliable accounts of pretty bitter differences of American opinion concerning the desirability of a Rooseveltian fourth term must interest them intensely, to say the least. There have been mutterings of jealousy between ourselves and the British relative to the postwar heritage of civil air power. There is published speculation as to the possibilities of terms between ourselves and the Russians in peace days to come.

The Axis folk can read this stuff in plain print if they take and read our dailies.

They interpret it their way, naturally, but it must have its effect on their morale. What we get from overseas is purely unconfirmed rumor or utterly unreliable enemy propaganda.

To be sure, we know that France, in the main, is anti-Axis. We also know that Italy is Axisly very frigid.

But we don't know how close the Italians are to dumping Duce Mussolini. We don't even know how Benito feels about it. Maybe he had never hooked up with Fuehrer Hitler. The other day

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

BY DREW PEARSON

ROOSEVELT THAWS FRESHMEN

WASHINGTON — The President's visit with freshmen Senators and Representatives was a rousing success from the standpoint of improving his shaky relations with Congress. The 117 new members, most of them Republicans, left the White House after partaking of beer, cheese, crackers and a double helping of Roosevelt charm.

To a man, they sang his praises, and most of the singing was done by Republicans who had blasted the President and his administration up hill and down dale in the last campaign.

Roosevelt entertained his guests with a variety of conversational topics, ranging from a serious discussion on the progress of the war and his trip to Africa to light banter on Congressional "word-coining" and "pleasure driving."

So they could get to know him better, Speaker Rayburn took turns in assembling the Congressional visitors before the President in three separate groups of about 40 each. This enabled everyone to hear him at close range, without neck-cranning. Meanwhile the others munched crackers and drank beer in other parts of the room.

And right here let it be noted that, though the President paid special attention to Republican Representative Winifred C. Stanley of New York—which some construed as a slap at her more publicized GOP colleague, Clare Luce of Connecticut—he by no means ignored the latter.

KIDDING CLARE LUCE

The President had a special quip for the glamorous Clare, apropos of her anti-Administration speech on post-war aviation. While she was listening, he told the group that he was tired of hearing the war with Japan described as a war of "attrition."

He explained that with more and more tons of Jap shipping destroyed, or airplanes shot down, victory over Japan is that much closer, since our production facilities are much greater than Japan's.

"The word the experts have for this is attrition," he added. "But it is not a good word. Many people do not understand what it means. Someone ought to think up a new word."

With a mischievous grin at Mrs. Luce, the President added gravely: "That's a job for you new members of Congress. Some of you are very good at thinking up new words."

Vice President Wallace, who was present and whose post-war views were described by the Connecticut congresswoman as "globoloney," joined in the laughter.

While on the subject of words, the President made a confession. Perhaps he had heard the complaint of Democratic National Committee members who said he had not let them talk. Anyway he said:

"Some people claim I do all the talking on occasions like this. That may be true. I must admit I do a lot of talking. I like to talk. But if I'm carrying it too far tonight, I want you to stop me."

No one tried to stop the President, however, for all those present seemed to be engaged in a friendly competition.

numbered the interned Jap-Americans, who will soon be at work in the middle west.

This is going to be a year of planning and canning, with the canner probably taking first place.

The führer sent his foreign minister, Joachim von Ribbentrop, to Rome to confer with Benito. Some versions are that Herr von Ribbentrop's mission was to assure Benito of Adolf's support in the event of an Italian insurrection against him. Others represent that Benito will do well to stand pat, or Germany will grab Italy, eliminating Benito, or possibly killing him if he weakens pro-Axisy.

Spain's newspapers are Axisly weakening. They were too Hitleristic at first, at Dictator Franco's order, but they have been climbing onto the fence recently. Nevertheless they remain cautious.

And then—

There continue to be suggestions that Germany's own militarists are fed up with Adolf and propose to dispose of him for their own management. It goes pretty much without saying that the führer doesn't permit any such speculation to be broadcast—not while he is running things in Berlin.

The little countries he has overrun are tightly corked up, naturally.

Consequently, the Axis crowd get no information to us, from them, and they get all of ours that they are interested in.

Far be it from me to advocate a censorship.

Yet the thing may have its publicity as well as its military value.

From our Occidental standpoint you always get back to Japan.

There's a country in which I have worked as a newspaperman.

It hasn't much of a censorship. It isn't educated up to a modern censorship.

The fact is that Mme. Chiang Kai-shek has converted the Orient.

The Japs have her as much as the Orient does. Her publicity scores about as effectively in Tokyo as in Chungking.

Nevertheless, some advertising is required to register it.

The Oriental isn't as copious as the Occidental press to do so.

What we need is a lot of Oriental newspapers, printed in henebracks, to speak for us.

"East is East and West is West and never the twain shall meet."

Rudyard Kipling.

Mme. Chiang has negated this latter assertion, according to current dope.

It will involve some translations, however.

Importance of Meat Foods As Sources of the Vitamins

for future use, but forget the necessity of keeping the breeding animals of our herds intact so that we can be assured of a supply of meat and proteins and fats after the conflict is over.

It is well that a man so experienced in food relief should emphasize the importance of meat. In spite of the ravings of uninformed critics who ascribe all sorts of dire consequences to the consumption of meat, it remains a nutritional staple and I cannot imagine a time, in this country at least, when it will not be demanded as a part of the daily diet.

Stefansson Experiment

There are plenty of good reasons for this. One of the great joys that the nutritionists had was a few years ago when Dr. Stefansson, the Arctic explorer, announced that the Eskimos who live on an exclusively meat diet, had a lower incidence of high blood pressure and Bright's disease than those in temperate climates who mixed a large amount of vegetables with their meat.

The best food for iron is again liver, with oysters running second; turnips, fourth; meats, fifth; and spinach and eggs, at about the middle of the list.

Since we are assured a good supply of liver, pork and cheese, it is comforting to know they have such good nutritional qualities.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

J. F.—Is it advisable for one who is taking thyroid tablets by doctor's orders to eat lots of food containing iodine? Is it possible, after taking thyroid for over two years, that one can ever get along without it, that depends on what condition caused you to start to take thyroid in the beginning.

In cases of myxedema it is not usually possible to get along without thyroid.

Answer: Thyroid tablets themselves contain iodine. Aside from this, if you are taking them under a doctor's orders, I would advise you to consult your own physician.

As to whether it is possible to get along without it, that depends on what condition caused you to start to take thyroid in the beginning.

In cases of myxedema it is not usually possible to get along without thyroid.

The best source of vitamin B₁—thiamine chloride—is pork. Good sources are lamb, beef and veal.

The best source of vitamin A is liver. Liver is also the best source of vitamin B₂—riboflavin. Good sources are beef, fish, pork, chicken and cheese.

The best source of nicotinic acid—the pellagra-preventive vitamin—is again liver, with pork running third and salmon running well up in the list.

Meat is not conspicuously a good source of vitamin C, but most meats contain some.

Editor's Note: Dr. Clendening has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by sending 10 cents for postage. For any one pamphlet desired, send 15 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp. Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are "The War Diet," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Disease," "Feeding Hair and Skin," and "Care of the Hair and Skin."

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may look for a favorable year, in which the fortunes and position may be put on a firm basis. It is a time to work for promotion, preferment, and other signs of cooperation from elders and employers.

A child born on this day, while having many sterling characteristics and talents may be disposed to capitalize social gifts to its advantage.

DIET AND HEALTH

Importance of Meat Foods As Sources of the Vitamins

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

MR. HOOVER in a recent address pointed out the warning that, in times like these, we are likely to think of preserving seeds for future use, but forget the necessity of keeping the breeding animals of our herds intact so that we can be assured of a supply of meat and proteins and fat after the conflict is over.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

It is well that a man so experienced in food relief should emphasize the importance of meat. In spite of the ravings of uninformed critics who ascribe all sorts of dire consequences to the consumption of meat, it remains a nutritional staple and I cannot imagine a time, in this country at least, when it will not be demanded as a part of the daily diet.

Stefansson Experiment

There are plenty of good reasons for this. One of the greatest is that the nutritionists had a few years ago when Dr. Stefansson, the Arctic explorer, announced that the Eskimos who live on an exclusively meat diet, had a lower incidence of high blood pressure and Bright's disease than those in temperate climates who mixed a large amount of vegetables with their meat. The Eskimos also do not suffer from any vitamin deficiencies. Dr. Stefansson offered to live on an exclusively meat diet in a temperate climate, and did so in New York for a year under careful medical supervision. At the end of the year his blood pressure was the same as at the beginning and there were no evidences of Bright's disease.

Meat Vitamins

For a long time the nutritionists reported the finding of vitamins only in vegetable products. Lately, however, they have been testing meats with gratifying results.

The best source of vitamin B1

—thiamine chloride—is pork. Good sources are lamb, beef and veal.

The best source of vitamin A is liver. Liver is also the best source of vitamin B2—riboflavin. Good sources are beef, fish, pork, chicken and cheese.

Since we are assured a good supply of liver, pork and cheese, it is comforting to know they have such good nutritional qualities.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

J. F.:—Is it advisable for one who is taking thyroid tablets by doctor's orders to eat lots of food containing iodine? Is it possible, after taking thyroid for over two years, that one can ever get along without thyroid tablets?

Answer: Thyroid tablets themselves contain iodine. Aside from this, if you are taking them under a doctor's orders, I would advise you to consult your own physician.

As to whether it is possible to get along without it, that depends on what condition caused you to start to take thyroid in the beginning.

In cases of myxedema it is not usually possible to get along without thyroid tablets.

The best source of vitamin A is liver. Liver is also the best source of vitamin B2—riboflavin. Good sources are beef, fish, pork, chicken and cheese.

The best source of nicotinic acid—the pellagra-preventive vitamin—is again liver, with pork running third and salmon running well up in the list.

Meat is not conspicuously a good source of vitamin C, but most meats contain some.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendening has pamphlets which give valuable information on diet.

The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet"; "Indigestion and Constipation"; "Rheumatism"; "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes"; "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

MOST propitious auguries are noted in this day's astrological forecast for those seeking favors, preferment, promotion or other tokens of appreciation from persons in place and power. It would be well to approach these with confidence. However, it might be amiss to stress the social, sentimental or romantic angle too far.

If It Is Your Birthday

The fact is that Mme. Chiang Kai-shek has converted the Orient.

The Japs believe her as much as the Orient does. Her publicity scores about as effectively in Tokyo as in Chungking.

Nevertheless, some advertising is required to register it.

The Oriental isn't as copious as the Occidental press to do so.

What we need is a lot of Oriental newspapers, printed in hentracks,

"East is East and West is West and never the twain shall meet," asserted Rudyard Kipling.

Mme. Chiang has negated this latter assertion, according to current news.

Dr. Roderick Peattie Talks to Monday Club

Speaker Tells How Sea Aids Mankind

SOCIAL CALENDAR

• Dr. Roderick Peattie, lecturer, teacher and author, was guest speaker Monday at the regular meeting of the Monday club in the club room, Memorial hall. His talk was on "The Sea in History." Dr. Peattie has been professor of geography at Ohio State university since 1925.

During the opening business hour of the Monday club, the members voted to contribute 30 percent of their community chest donation to the Red Cross and also to contribute to the Cancer Control fund. Mrs. Howard Newell Stevenson, president, was in the chair for the session.

Mrs. A. L. Wilder of the bazaar committee reported that $86 had been cleared from the bazaar and market which the Monday club held recently. A War Bond had been bought with this money.

Mrs. Barton Deming announced the postponement of the meeting of April 12 until May 10, when the Monday Club Chorus and the Elks' Chorus will present a Gilbert and Sullivan program. There will be no meeting on April 12.

The meeting was turned to Mrs. Henry Lewis, chairman of the literature division, who introduced Dr. Peattie.

During his talk, the speaker traced briefly the history of mankind and showed how the development and expansion of culture has depended upon man's contact with the sea. Not until man began to travel by sea did he enjoy any ease of freedom in going places nor until this time did he come in contact with other people.

The earliest sailings were in the Persian sea. The extent of the Phoenician sailings may be learned from Hercules. Once man learned to sail, the sea became not a barrier but a means of contact. Because of this too, he has been engaged in wars with his sea-borne neighbors. The speaker showed how wars from the Persian Wars in ancient times up to the present conflict have been waged because of the desire of various nations to control the seas important to them commercially.

Speaking of the expansion of the European countries, Dr. Peattie told his audience that the sea travels of Magellan, Drake and other voyagers led to the explorations and colonizations of distant lands. Because of these and other extensive voyages, foreign ideas were introduced in the then civilized world. "Sailing", he said, "gave much to English culture." Until the time of Elizabeth, England was a backward country. During this period, her language acquired many new words and her culture expanded greatly."

The English have always been sea-minded. No place in England is more than 70 miles from the sea—salt is in the air which has had a great influence on the character and viewpoint of her people. England has always waged war by blockade and is doing so at the present time. Points which were important to her are the ports and strategic harbors of the world. Gibraltar, Suez, Singapore, Bombay, Calcutta, the Falkland Islands and Panama.

Dr. Peattie told his audience that the heart land of the world by and Mrs. J. S. Varney being guests in addition to Mrs. Ulm.

The program opened with a violin solo, "Danny Boy", by Miss Dellia Mason with Mrs. Paul Ross as her piano accompanist. Six Irish songs, typed by Mrs. Dorothy East and accompanied by Miss Mason and her violin were sung by the group.

Mrs. Metzger, the new president, received the reports of Mrs. Tipton, secretary, and Mrs. W. D. Helskell, treasurer. Mrs. Tipton, chairman of the membership committee, reported as new members, Mrs. Edwin Frazier, Mrs. Gordon Rihl, Mrs. Herschel Alkire, Mrs. George McGhee and Mrs. Ulin McGhee. Mrs. Charles Rose and Mrs. Brance Johnson were members of the committee. Mrs. Metzger named on the sales stamp committee, Miss Twyla West, Miss Ruth Ater and Mrs. Helskell. Mrs. Russell Wardell was appointed card chairman. Mrs. Walter Wright was named in charge of the ration book for the club.

When the group was invited to the dining room, Mrs. George LeMay poured tea at the table centered with a beautiful arrangement of snapdragons and ferns. St. Patrick's Day appointments were used on the lovely table. Sandwiches, tea and candy were served.

The assisting hostesses were Mrs. Ray Horch, Mrs. Archie Rawlinson, Mrs. Lee Luellen and Mrs. Dorothy East. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Glen Baker. It was voted to dispense with refreshments for the duration.

"The Lexington", and told of its sinking in the Coral Sea. Mrs. Ulm told of various activities of the men of the carrier, telling of the initiation of the men into the order of "shellbacks" as they crossed the equator for the first time. Since the club is using allied countries as its study theme for the year, the book review tied in with this course of study.

VICTORY GARDEN-GRAPH

"Safety First" in Victory Garden

By DEAN HALLIDAY
Released by Central Press Association

ALTHOUGH "damping off" can be prevented, there are no known means of saving plants afflicted with the disease. Excessive moisture, crowded plants, lack of air circulation, high humidity, and lack of sunlight are all factors which help to make this disease successful among plants destined this year for Victory gardens.

Because America needs millions of Victory gardens this year every "safety first" measure to protect seedling plants should be taken. The accompanying Garden-Graph illustrates the problem and what can be done about it.

SERVICE TEAMS
SEEK HONOR IN
A. A. U. TOURNEY

DENVER, March 16—Five service quintets—each hoping to be first of Uncle Sam's representatives in history to win the national A. A. U. cage championship—moved into the lime-light today as the 1943 "world's series" of basketball opened its third day of play.

One of the service teams was slated for certain elimination because the draw called for the crack Alameda, Cal., coast guard quintet, led by all-American Jim Pollard, formerly of Stanford, to clash with the naval air station team from Norman, Okla., tonight.

Two of the other three service teams, each representing the army, were listed as favorites to be among the 16 survivors tonight from the original field of 38 entrants.

The Williams field team from Chandler, Ariz., was favored to the Sioux City, Ia., Bakers, and the Fort Lewis, Wash., outfit was lining up their forces today for the trek to their Spring training camp at French Lick, Ind.

The White Sox, who will leave for camp Friday, were more interested, however, in preparing for tomorrow's arrival to-morrow of Manager Jimmy Dykes from his California retreat.

The Cub will leave for camp until Monday.

CHICAGO, March 16—With diamond conditioning crews already at the scene, the Chicago White Sox and the Cubs were lining up their forces today for the trek to their Spring training camp at French Lick, Ind.

The White Sox, who will leave for camp Friday, were more interested, however, in preparing for tomorrow's arrival to-morrow of Manager Jimmy Dykes from his California retreat.

The Cub will leave for camp until Monday.

CAIRO, Ill., March 16—Racing against the time in preparation for defense of their title as world champions, the St. Louis Cardinals faced another light workout today. The pitching staff, which was reported intact by Manager Billy Southworth, took to the mound for brief workouts. Owner Sam Breadon said 26 players had been signed with six still out of the fold.

Jeff Heath Rejecting
CLEVELAND TEAM PAY

CLEVELAND, March 16—Jeff Heath, husky Cleveland Indian outfielder, has rejected a second contract and is a holdout. Vice-president Roger Peckinpaugh revealed today.

The temperamental Indian Gardner termed his first contract "peanuts" and was then offered a substantially better one by Peckinpaugh, who termed it a "very fair contract."

"We have made Jeff our final offer and the next move is up to him," Peckinpaugh said.

Heath is working in a shipyard in Seattle, Wash., and previously had threatened to remain at his war job if his salary is not raised.

Rudy York Signs Up;
O'Neill Issues Decree

EVANSVILLE, Ind., March 16—Rudy York, the last holdout, today had signed a 1943 contract and the Detroit Tigers entered their second day of Spring training at full strength.

York, who watched the initial workout yesterday from the stands, came to terms late yesterday afternoon. Dixie Parsons, first string catcher who came from Beaumont, Tex., unsigned, put his name on the line earlier in the day.

Meanwhile, Manager Steve O'Neill today inaugurated a rigid set of training rules which bars poker playing. A violation of the no-poker rule will result in a $500 fine, O'Neill said.

Reds List Casualties
In Initial Practice

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., March 16

—The Cincinnati Reds today were nursing two opening day Spring training casualties, Buckey Walters, dean of the pitching staff who turned his ankle in attempting to leap a track hurdle, and John Conway, rookie infielder who was ordered to bed with a fever brought on by a heavy cold. A squad of 33 went through opening day paces under the direction of Manager Bill McKechnie.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., March 16—Lou Boudreau, youthful manager of the Cleveland Indians, was confident today his squad could get into good physical condition in the Purdue university fieldhouse and then play its way into shape during the 15 exhibition games.

Lacking a first sacker in his 28-man squad, Boudreau turned his attention to trying out Otto Denning, third-string catcher, at that post.

HERSHEY, Pa., March 16—Manager Bucky Harris today planned to put his 13 Phillies, including two playing coaches, through their first regular morning and afternoon drills. Physical Director Harold A. Bruce has given the boys a few "elementary calisthenics," which they prefer to call a "post-graduate course in muscle maneuvering."

Harris told the team he doesn't expect them to look like pennant winners, but to act like major leaguers. "Forget this defeatist idea," he said.

PHILADELPHIA, March 16—Connie Mack was singing the "army blues" once again today following announcement that three more of his athletes were traded in their baseball togs for Uncle Sam's khaki.

With Pitcher Fred Caligiuri already inducted and Pitcher Bob Savage and Catcher George Yankowski due to enter the army shortly, "that makes 23 men to go into the service from my team," baseball's grand old man said. "Ball-players are not going to be as easy to get as they have been in the past. But we'll have to get along as best we can."

CHICAGO, March 16—With diamond conditioning crews already at the scene, the Chicago White Sox and the Cubs were lining up their forces today for the trek to their Spring training camp at French Lick, Ind.

The White Sox, who will leave for camp Friday, were more interested, however, in preparing for tomorrow's arrival to-morrow of Manager Jimmy Dykes from his California retreat.

fined to the callisthenics stage.

Manager Luke Sewell promised his charges today they would face hard workouts next week. Twelve players were on hand including Outfielder Glenn McQuillen, recently reclassified 1-A in the draft, who hoped to get in a few weeks playing before the army called him.

Won't Be Back

EARL (DUTCH) CLARK, the football coach of the Cleveland Rams of the National Professional Football league, won't be back as coach of the Rams this year.

Clark has asked the Cleveland management not to renew his contract because "possibilities elsewhere seem greater." Clark lives in Pueblo, Colo., and formerly coached the Detroit Lions.

As a football player at Colorado college and later in the pro ranks, he was one of the outstanding gridiron stars. (International)

MEANWHILE, pairings for regional play were to be completed to-night when drawings are made for the Zanesville Class A meet. Martins Ferry, undefeated in 22 straight games; Greenfield, undefeated in 17 straight; Akron Kenmore and Dover make up the list of quintets who will play there.

Other pairings:

Class A
At Bowling Green—Port Clinton vs Defiance, undefeated in 21 games, and Toledo Woodward vs Lima Central.

At Kent—(Friday night)—Canton McKinley vs Akron West; Canton Lehman vs East Cleveland.

At Dayton—Xenia Central (defending state champ) vs Cincinnati Elder and Newark vs Middle-town.

Class B
At Bowling Green—Webster (undefeated in 22 games) vs Middle Point (unbeaten in 24); Pettisville vs Wharton.

At Springfield—Berlin vs

CITIZENS URGED TO AID

Scrap Should Be Placed At Curb—School Children To Play Part

April 1 marks another important day in Circleville's war program with tin cans, magazines and scrap metals to be rounded up for shipment to Uncle Sam's various collection centers.

Dan McClain, salvage committee chief, said Tuesday that salvagers have established the April 1 date for an all-out effort to boost the county's participation in the important undertakings.

The entire campaign will be centered in a single day with the Circleville service department, directed by Clarence Helvering, operating with the salvage committee. All trucks owned by the department will be put into the collection effort. Tin cans are to be put in front of all residences so that the city trucks can gather them without any difficulty. Considering the immensity of the program, McClain said, Tuesday, it is imperative that all cans be properly prepared for collection. Information concerning preparation of the cans is being sent into each home through school children.

Must Clean Cans

All cans are to be cleaned, crushed and the label removed. Cans which are not properly prepared will not be taken by the service department trucks.

Participation of schools is of importance, Mr. McClain pointed out. He said that magazines and scrap collected April 1 will be sold and all profit will be put into school funds.

School children will be organized by Tom Armstrong, who has directed several successful scrap salvage campaigns.

McClain pointed out that no newspapers will be taken in this collection.

It is planned to conduct similar collections the first day of each month after April, the service department pledging cooperation.

Tin can collection in rural areas will be planned at a later date.

Another scrap salvage campaign in the entire county will likely be worked out following a conference March 26 in Chillicothe which Mr. McClain will attend with Herman Hill and Harry Roese, the latter president of the Pickaway County Township Trustees' association. At this meeting details of the salvage project will be outlined and the county's part explained.

OUTDOOR RANGE TO BE SET UP BY RIFLE CLUB

Pickaway County Rifle club closed its chapter Monday evening with 39 members enrolled announced that additional associate members would be accepted and made plans to establish an outdoor range on the Charles Nile farm in Jackson township.

Committees will visit Chillicothe and Grove City this week to inspect outdoor ranges there before starting construction on the Nile farm. It is planned to set up the range for shooting at 50 yards, 100 yards and 200 yards, with an additional target at 20 yards for pistol shooting.

The club's indoor range will be established in the National Guard armory, East Franklin street, permission having been received from state officials for use of the building.

The organization plans much activity this summer, including instruction for youths and men who intend to enter the nation's armed services. Members of the club will donate their own time to providing instruction for the service men.

Mondays' meeting was held in the Betz restaurant.

TRUCK LANDS IN DITCH, DRIVER ESCAPES HARM

David Ward, of Marietta, escaped without injury but much damage was done to a trailer-tractor outfit hauling a large shipment of roofing and blue denim material Monday when the outfit went off Route 22, one mile west of Circleville, into a ditch.

Deputy Sheriff Bryan Custer, who investigated, said the driver told him something had gone wrong with the steering apparatus.

The heavy outfit kept moving toward the edge of the road and finally went off the north side of the highway, breaking a utility pole and tearing up several rods of fence on the Jacob Scharenberg farm.

The outfit belongs to James A. Darrah, Akron, O.

April 1 Set as Date for Local All-Out Salvage Effort.

Scrap Should Be Placed At

To Play Part

April 1 marks another important day in Circleville's war program with the cans, magazines and scrap metals to be rounded up for shipment to Uncle Sam's various collection centers.

Dan McClain, salvage committee chief, said Tuesday that salvagers have established the April 1 date for an all-out effort to boost the county's participation in the important undertakings.

The entire campaign will be centered in a single day with the Circleville service department, directed by Clarence Helvering, cooperating with the salvage committee. All trucks owned by the department will be put into the collection effort. Tin cans are to be put in front of all residences so that the city trucks can gather them without any difficulty. Considering the immensity of the program, McClain said Tuesday, it is imperative that all cans be properly prepared for collection. Information concerning preparation of the cans is being sent into each home through school children.

Must Clean Cans

All cans are to be cleaned, crushed and the label removed. Cans which are not properly prepared will not be taken by the service department trucks.

Participation of schools is of importance, Mr. McClain pointed out. He said that magazines and scrap collected April 1 will be sold and all profit will be put into school funds.

School children will be organized by Tom Armstrong, who has directed several successful scrap salvage campaigns.

McClain pointed out that no newspapers will be taken in this collection.

It is planned to conduct similar collections the first day of each month after April, the service department pledging cooperation.

Tin can collection in rural areas will be planned at a later date.

Another scrap salvage campaign in the entire county will likely be worked out following a conference March 26 in Chillicothe which Mr. McClain will attend with Herman Hill and Harry Roese, the latter president of the Pickaway county Township Trustees' association. At this meeting details of the salvage project will be outlined and the county's part explained.

OUTDOOR RANG TO BE SET U BY RIFLE CLU

Pickaway County Rifle club closed its charter Monday evening with 39 members enrolling. It announced that additional associate members would be accepted and made plans to establish an outdoor range on the Charles Nile farm in Jackson township.

Committees will visit Chillicothe and Grove City this week to inspect outdoor ranges there before starting construction on the Nile farm. It is planned to set up the range for shooting at 50 yards, 100 yards and 200 yards, with an additional target at 20 yards for pistol shooting.

The club's indoor range will be established in the National Guard armory, East Franklin street, permission having been received from state officials for use of the building.

The organization plans much activity this summer, including instruction for youths and men who intend to enter the nation's armed services. Members of the club will donate their own time to providing instruction for the service men.

Monday's meeting was held in the Betz restaurant.

joying the show immensely. There were more laughs when the President shook hands with Representative Charles E. McKenzie and James H. Morrison, both of the Louisiana delegation.

which has threatened a sit-down strike against him unless they get a Huey Long judge appointed to the 5th Circuit Court of Appeals.

"I'm glad to meet you," he told the Louisianians. Then he added with an audible aside: "Don't make this your last visit. Slip through the backdoor sometime soon."

TRIBUTE TO WILL ROGERS

The President spoke touchingly to Representative Will Rogers of California about his father, the famous humorist.

An admirer of your father sent me a statue of him, which I keep in my Hyde Park home. I wish you would come up to see it sometime.

There were special words for many more of the guests, including Republican Representative Calvin Johnson of Illinois. As he shook hands with Roosevelt, Johnson remarked: "I don't belong to your party, but I guess I'll find myself voting for you even at times when I may not wholly agree with you. You see, I have three sons in the service."

"That's fine," beamed the President, "but I'm one up on you. I have four boys in the service."

"Well, you're older than I," countered Johnson.

The President inquired about each of Johnson's sons, was especially interested to learn that one, Lieut. John E. (Barney) Johnson, was with the Army Air Corps at Randolph Field.

"I was talking to General 'Hap' Arnold recently and told him we would have many thousands of new planes ready for service this year," the President said. "I asked him if he would have the pilots trained to fly them. General Arnold assured me he would. So, one of the planes will be for that boy of yours, Congressman."

Discussing wartime transportation problems, Johnson revealed that he had driven to Washington from Illinois in his automobile.

"That was before the pleasure driving ban, Mr. President," grinned Johnson, "but I feel a little guilty anyhow, using up all that gasoline."

The President cocked his cigarette holder at a jaunty angle, winked impishly at Johnson.

"That's Congress for you," he said. "Pleasure driving!"

Note: The effect of the President's Congressional reception was felt the next day when Representative O'Konski, Wisconsin Republican, made a vigorous speech championing Roosevelt's $25,000 salary limitation and opposing conservative Democrats who tried to overthrow it.

CAPITAL CHAFF

Weldon Worth, the Army's Wright Field inventor, has now made it absolutely clear that he is glad to have his invention for warming up airplane engines used on all lend-lease equipment, regardless of royalty.

The question of royalty, if any, will leave up to future settlement by the courts. . . . The Army pays tribute to the value of Mr. Worth's patents. . . . Col. Bob Johnson, of Johnson and Johnson bandage fame, now head of the Small War Plants Division, has his eye on the New Jersey governorship on the GOP ticket. . . . White House political advisers have asked New York's Young Democratic leader Harold Moskovit to report on political undercurrents around the country.

Hardest question for die-hard Republicans to answer these days is this: "Would you be any happier today if Roosevelt had been defeated in 1936 and Alf Landon were in the middle of his second term?" . . . Col. Bill Neblett, of Los Angeles, has just given another indication that libel suits don't pay. After five years of legal battling he has dropped his million dollar suit against Pierson Hall, defended by Corporal Sam Hahn, of Los Angeles. . . Chilean Senator Cruz Coke, who had a great deal to do with persuading Chile to break with the Axis, is now in Washington receiving the thanks of U. S. officials.

There were special words for many more of the guests, including Republican Representative Calvin Johnson of Illinois. As he shook hands with Roosevelt,
